Welcome to SEEC Campaign Reporting Information System (eCRIS)

An essential goal of Connecticut's landmark campaign finance reform legislation is to increase transparency in the financing of political campaigns. To accomplish this goal, the State Elections Enforcement Commission (SEEC) was given the responsibility for implementing a new and improved electronic campaign reporting system for candidates, political committees and party committees that are required to file with the SEEC.

SEEC is proud to introduce eCRIS to satisfy this important goal. eCRIS enables candidates, political committee and party committee chairs and treasurers to electronically submit required committee registration information and campaign finance statements detailing the receipts and expenditures of their committee. One of our primary goals is to ensure compliance with the campaign finance laws, eCRIS provides its users with prompts to facilitate compliance. As noncompliance can result in the imposition of significant financial penalties, eCRIS provides users with greater assurance that requirements are satisfied.
